

Alexa Randolph

Author
Blogger- Podcaster
Central Pain Syndrome Advocate

Learn More About Alexa

Alexa Randolph is an author, blogger and podcaster. She graduated with a bachelor's degree in Communications from Michigan State University.

Once she graduated, she was in a bad car accident and was diagnosed with Central Pain Syndrome. It has been a rough road for her. She became an advocate for the Central Pain Syndrome Foundation where she hopes to bring awareness to those who suffer.

Not everyone understands what it's like be in pain, but look completely healthy on the outside. There are so many people suffering and don't have support or a voice. I want to be the voice that helps those who can't." - Alexa Randolph

With Love, Ella- a women's fiction and romance novel about an event planner named Ella, and Quarterback, Daniel who have been together for years. They are finally ready to take the next step and get married, but they receive devastating news. Will they be able to get married and live happily ever after, or will tragedy get in the way?

- Daniel, Ever After- is the sequel to With Love, Ella. It is the story of Daniel Collins and Molly Jackson who are both lost in their own worlds. They recently lost the most important people in their lives. They are connected in so many ways but are complete strangers. They are barely hanging on, but a drunken encounter sends them over the edge of despair. Can they bring each other out of their misery, or will it be too late?

Blog and Podcast

- Forever Strong and With Love, Alexa are a blog and podcast about raising awareness for Central Pain Syndrome and the day to day life of living with with grief, different treatment options as well as talking with specialists.

As Seen on Media: Oakland Press, Jewish News, West Bloomfield High School Spectrum, West Bloomfield The Splash TV with Brooke Allen, The Mighty, Thought Catalog

Email: alexa@alexarandolph.com · Website: www.alexarandolph.com